School Board Addresses Parental Concerns About Attendance

Gone Fishin'

By Sue Aucella Deacon

As they promised a parents' group last spring, the School Committee has taken a new look at its policy on school attendance, and apparently the parents' major concern has been addressed.

The committee Tuesday night voted unanimously (with Donald Robb absent) to accept their "first reading" of a draft of the revised policy, which was adopted in 1979. Chairman Richard Neal said the committee would vote on a first pass on the policy during their next meeting on Sept. 6.

The key change in the policy, according to Superintendent Kenneth Seifert, is the elimination of the distinction between "verifiable" and "unverifiable" student absences.

In May, Edward Weil of the Parents Advisory Council to Andover High School told the committee that was a sore point, because a parent's note was not enough to "verify" an absence due to illness; a doctor's note was required. He said parents objected to that provision of the policy because it implied they might lie about the reasons for a student's absence.

This week Weil said he was pleased to see that "abhorrent" aspect of the policy deleted. Weil said members of his group had reviewed the proposed revisions and "everyone was quite happy" with the draft.

The draft of the revised policy states only that "all school absences require a note from the parent/guardian explaining the absence."

The revised policy would also allow students fewer absences before they are given a failing grade for incomplete attendance. In the original policy, students were allowed 10 (unverifiable) absences during a quarter, 15 during a semester and 20 for the year.

The draft of the new policy would restrict those absences to eight during a quarter, 12 during a semester and 15 during the year. Principal Mary Jennings told the committee she believed that given those new limitations, "students will respond positively."

Special consideration will be given to long-term illnesses, according to the revised policy.

The draft also notes that vacations scheduled while school is in session will not be considered a valid reason for absence — and teachers will not be required to spend time helping students make up work after they return from vacations.

School Committee Richard Neal said that after the revised policy is implemented, he would like to see how many students go over the limit of allowed absences, along with some information on how well the policy is working.

Pre-season Clinics To Be Offered

The school department will offer pre-season clinics to students who are required to have physical exams before they may participate in school sports, the School Committee decided Tuesday night.

Supt. Kenneth Seifert said such clinics have not been offered in recent years because few students have been taking advantage of them, but committeeman Michael Giammusso said he would like to see the clinics reinstated.

He emphasized that physicals would not be free at the clinics, but would be less expensive than the exams that could be obtained from family physicians.

Giammusso said the clinics should be offered before each sports season.

The committee indicated that further information about the sports clinics will be offered to parents when school opens next month.

Industrial Bonds Are Approved

The selectmen Monday night voted unanimously to accept the report of the Industrial Development Finance Authority (I.D.F.A.) recommending approval of more than $3.5 million in industrial revenue bonds for a new West Andover office development.

Frontage Road Associates plans a 64,000-square foot office building on a 4.3-acre site. The developers are seeking $3.5 million in low-interest industrial revenue bonds to help fund the $3.8 million project.

Licenses, Permits Granted

The Board of Selectmen approved several licenses and permits during a regular meeting at Memorial Hall Library Monday night.

Massachusetts Electric Co. was granted permission to lay underground conduits under and across Seten Circle, off Salem Street.

Howard Johnson Co. was granted permission for a change of manager at the Ground Round on South Main St.; the new manager will be Stephen Sykes of Woburn.

Bay State Gas Co. was given permission to excavate at 33 Summer St. to renew services, and to excavate to make emergency repairs at 17 Hidden Road, 3 Kensington St., Porter and Carlton Roads, 25 Porter Road, 18 Rutgers Road, School and Locke Streets, 100 Longwood Drive, 135 Main St. and 18 Canterbury St.

And the West Parish Neighborhood Association was granted permission to hold their third annual block party on Saturday, Sept. 10, with a rain date of Sept. 11, from 4 p.m. until nightfall. Cutler Road at Bateson Drive to Cutler at Oriole and Reservation Road will be blocked off for the event.

Selectmen Now In Charge Of Parking

The selectmen added a new title to their list of official designations Monday night: They are now the parking commissioners for the town of Andover.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony told the board that the town must have parking commissioners as one of the terms of a state grant that will help fund the new downtown parking lot at the former Purity Supreme site.

The selectmen voted unanimously to accept the new duty.

Powell Is Appointed Advisor

Mary Jane Powell, 31 Cheever Circle, Andover, has been appointed to the Governor's Advisory Committee on Women's Issues.

In naming the advisory committee, which is comprised of 30 members, Gov. Michael S. Dukakis said, "This committee is a cross section of women from varying backgrounds, constituency groups and regions of the commonwealth. I ask that they work closely with me, with my cabinet and other policy members of this administration to assure that our state policies and our budget reflect long standing commitment to equal employment opportunities, adequate quality day care, special assistance for displaced homemakers and battered women, quality continuing education and a network of qualified and talented women throughout state government advocating the needs of women."

The advisory committee will also work with the governor's Advisor on Women's Issues, Joan A. Quilan, who was appointed as the first woman to serve specifically as a policy advisor to the governor.

Housing Funds Are Sought

The Merrimack Valley Planning Commission (MVPC) has successfully completed a one-year housing referral service entitled HELPS (Housing for Elderly and Low Income Persons Service). The service, available to the 15 communities in the region, assisted more than 200 households by providing them with information on subsidized housing and/or actively assisting in their rental search.

The most popular component of the referral service was the Rental Search Program designed to aid people in finding immediate housing. This was accomplished by continuous follow-up with rental ads, realtor and landlord listings and subsidized housing vacancies. Of the 72 households participating in the Rental Search Program, 45.8 percent found permanent living quarters as a direct result of information obtained from the MVPC.

The referral service also developed comprehensive lists of public and private subsidized housing in the region.

Dean's List

Ellen T. Williams, 1 Kensington St., Andover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Williams, a 1981 graduate of Andover High School, has been named to the Dean's List by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at Villanova University, Villanova, Pa.

This information was made available to private households and public agencies by phone and mail.

The housing referral service also visited various realtor groups with a subsidized housing slide show and developed and distributed two brochures, "Want to Move" and Fair Housing Laws and Codes" in English and Spanish.

The housing referral service has been successful because of its unique approach in having regional subsidized housing information available in one central location, as well as actively assisted people in their rental search.

The commission voted unanimously to seek additional funding through public and private sources so that the MVPC can continue to HELP.

Attending Fulbright Orientation

Gregory Wilkin, a teacher at Phillips Academy, is attending the 13th annual Fulbright Teacher Exchange Institute at The American University in Washington, D.C., and will spend a year teaching in Great Britain.

The orientation institute, hosted by American's department of continuing education, will draw approximately 225 American and international teachers who will exchange teaching positions for the coming year. Exchange teachers are recruited and placed by the U.S. Information Agency.

Government and embassy officials and former exchange teachers will brief orientation participants. The U.S. exchange teachers, who have been corresponding with their counterparts from other lands, will meet with them and trade more information about the educational and cultural aspects of the countries where they will live and work. Sessions are also planned for members of the teachers' families who will travel with them.

Insurance companies in 14 states, including Massachusetts, are offering credits to customers whose houses are heated primarily by active or passive solar heat, because these houses have less fire losses than those with conventional heating systems. Earth-sheltered houses are included because they are protected from storms, Massachusetts Audubon points out.

An 'Andover Guy' Reaches Another Goal

By Sue Aucella Deacon

A lifelong love, a dream of many years and the courage to face a new challenge will all come together in Elm Square next week for Andover resident Enzo Fossella, an Italian-born designer and tailor venturing into retailing for the first time.

Mr. Fossella, of Marie Drive, will open a designer clothing shop for men and women called Enzo of Andover Ltd. at 2 Elm Square on Aug. 18 — leaving behind, with the whole-hearted support of his family, 30 years as a designer and custom tailor.

The store is the latest in a series of goals he has set for himself throughout his life. Enzo says, with the softest trace of an accent.

"I believe in life we all set certain goals," he explains. "I have been one of those lucky guys that somehow has always reached the goals I've set for myself." He admits that he has more than luck to thank for his success: "Work doesn't bother me," he says with a smile.

Slight and somehow elegant even in shirt sleeves (he is in the midst of setting up the store, he explains, apologizing for his attire), Mr. Fossella is filling his store with merchandise that inspires him, most of it imported from around the world.

He pulls a pinstriped gray suit, pure wool, from a rack and describes it in loving detail. He fingers the lapels of a black silk tuxedo with the same admiration, displays a sport jacket in a muted plaid with the same enthusiasm. He urges a visitor to stroke a pastel sweater made of the softest cashmere imaginable, to notice a display case lined with silk neckties in a subtle rainbow of colors and patterns.

"I only know quality," he explains. "It is the only thing I accept, and when I deal with quality merchandise I can talk about it with great enthusiasm. I would not carry anything in this store that does not have the kind of standards I believe in."

It troubles him that few of the "beautiful" clothes and accessories he will sell are made in his adopted country. "This bothers me because we are the best country in the world, we have so much technology to offer — yet we have failed in certain industries. Unfortunately the clothing industry has suffered for many years."

Mr. Fossella came to this country 29 years ago, at the age of 19. He brought his talent for custom tailoring and his respect for fine clothing from the seaside village of Calabria, Italy, where he had studied tailoring and design since he was seven years old.

His father was "a fine tailor," Enzo explains. "We tend to try to follow the footsteps of the father — it was a natural thing. I fell in love with it from day one."

Encouraged by the master tailor who taught him his craft, Enzo opened his own tailor shop when he was 17. "At 17 years, in Italy, in my era, you became a more responsible individual than most 17-year-old young men at this era," he notes. "I had a goal that I had set. I was determined to reach it. I worked very hard and I worked toward that goal."

Enzo's shop was successful, but the elder Fossella — a U.S. citizen — urged his son to seek his future in America. "He said to me, 'You go to America and you will be a successful individual,'" Enzo recalls. "And at age 77 he crossed the ocean so that I could go to America. He was a remarkable individual."

Mr. Fossella says his father came here alone to pave the way for him before returning to Italy. When Enzo came to Brockton he did not speak English, but within two days he found a job sewing for Davis Sportswear.

Four years later, he went back to Calabria to marry "the girl that I loved and that I left behind. I kept my promise that I would go back." Mr. Fossella and his bride, Lina, returned to Brockton within a few months.

A more appealing job as a custom tailor for Toni's of Brockton lured him away from Davis, but Enzo quickly realized that in America, the "mass market" had little interest in custom-tailored clothing. So: "I directed my course toward designing. I set myself another goal — I wanted to be a designer."

He returned to Davis Sportswear as an assistant designer of the ladies line, and eventually became the vice president of styling and design. After 12 years with Davis, Enzo moved on to serve as head designer for Mighty-Mac Sportswear of Lawrence and Gloucester, a manufacturer of men's, boys' and women's clothing. He resigned from that position last month, after 17 years.

"It was hard to do," he admits. "I leave behind a tremendous amount of feeling and tremendous relationships that I have built with all the people at Mighty-Mac."

But he is looking forward to the new turn his career is about to take. "In the last few years I've been thinking that I wanted to start something of my own." And his father's influence is still with him: His father owned a store in Italy, and "as a youngster I enjoyed that area of the business. This store fits the feeling I've had since I was a little boy, to dress up a man or a woman and make sure they look elegant and comfortable."

Enzo will open his store in Andover, where he has lived with his family for 22 years, because "I'm an Andover guy. I love the town. I love the people." He says he became excited the moment he learned 2 Elm Square was available; he calls it "the greatest spot downtown — the five corners of Andover. I made up my mind right away that this was the location."

He is not opening the new business alone. "We are a family that works together," he says of his wife and three daughters, "and together we will make this a success."

The entire family has been putting the store together since January, decorating it in brown and gold with brass accents, oriental-looking rugs scattered on the floor, and custom-built wooden display cases and counter.

Lina Fossella is designing the displays, Enzo says. His oldest daughter, Theresa, 22, will contribute design, marketing and sales ideas; Joanne, 18, will handle the books and orders; and Lisa, 12, will help wherever she can.

With his wife, Mr. Fossella will do all the fitting and alterations in the store. He also plans to design some items exclusively for the store, working from a workroom in the back of the store. He says strongly that he will emphasize good service.

"I want my customers to feel that they are coming into a store where they are sincerely welcomed, and see them get the satisfaction that truly comes from my heart. It's a deep feeling that I really have, to give people the kind of service that I believe they're entitled to have when they buy the kind of product I intend to present."

What he will present will consist largely of tailored clothing: suits and sports jackets for men; suits, blazers and skirts for women; along with shirts, sweaters, ties, scarves, leather goods — "everything but shoes."

The store will feature his favorite looks. "I'm a plaid and stripe guy," he confesses. (The evidence is hanging on the racks lining his store.) "And I like grays — a man looks very elegant in a gray suit." He also likes two-button suits, "with a little touch of the double-breasted," and versatile jackets. "You can do so much with beautiful tweeds in terms of shirts and ties."

Mr. Fossella notes that American men are dressing with much more flair today than 29 years ago. "I have seen the man come around a long way," he says. "I can remember in the late fifties and sixties, the man was very conservative. Now a man will wear a very colorful shirt or sport jacket that only a woman would have worn 15 years ago." He attributes this to the influence of women's fashions, especially in sportswear.

He is not nervous about starting his own business, Enzo says, adding that indeed he has never felt calmer. "I'm very, very confident and very excited. For the first time in my life, I'm doing something for me and for my family. I haven't had this feeling since I was 17."

"It's another challenge. It's another goal I've set for my life at this point," Enzo Fossella says. "And with the will of God, I will reach it, too."

Paperbag Puppets

Howe Hosts Annual YMCA President's Picnic

The Greater Lawrence YMCA held its annual President's Picnic at Camp Lawrence on Bear Island, Lake Winnepesaukee, N.H., Sunday, July 31. The event was hosted by Douglas Howe Sr. of North Andover and Jack Moltenbrey, the general director of the association.

More than 80 guests attended, including members of the staff and boards of all three branches that comprise the Greater Lawrence Association as well as members of the board of directors, board of trustees, Y's mens' club and alumni of the camps.

Local residents who attended included Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Poore, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Himber, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Maxwell and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Douglass. North Andover residents included Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas DeNitto, Mr. and Mrs. Andras Hamoria and David Gray.

Other guests came from as far afield as California with a European flavor being added by three of the seven overseas staff members on the Camp Lawrence staff. One of them, Jon Craig, was responsible for coordinating the day's events and is now well recognised around camp as this is his fourth season on the staff. His main responsibility has been to complete the compilation of the book that is being produced to permanently record the history and development of Camp Lawrence. Many of the guests were present at last year's picnic which also combined a reunion to mark the 75th anniversary of the camp's being in operation.

Scott Franz, formerly of North Andover and Andover, but now residing in Lawrence, prepared the picnic buffet. He is the food service manager for Camp Lawrence and Camp Nokomis, the girls' residential camp, also on Bear Island.

The buffet consisted of several varieties of fruit and vegetable salads, fried chicken, cold meats, eggplant parmesan, freshly baked bread and cookies. Decorations included ice molds and fruit vegetable carvings prepared by Franz who learned this "garde manger" craft before graduating from the Culinary Institute of America.

Activities At The Playgrounds

Sparc Park

Sparc prepared for superstar competition on Monday. It was worth all the effort. On Tuesday the Sparcers went to Superstar competition at the Tewksbury-Wilmington Lodge of Elks and competed in field events. Many of them placed and received a trophy and ribbons for our participation. Linda Hinkley and Joanne Connors were two of the favorite competitors. Thank you to Jimmy's Pizza and the miniature golf for the complimentary tournament.

Bancroft Preschool

Wednesday there was a magic show at Ballardvale playground. Pac Man and Ms. Pac Man were there along with Donkey Kong and Dr. Doom. Teddy bears visited on Thursday and a tea party was held in their honor. Alex Dalis and Andy Small had the largest bears and Danny Ahles, Keven Lee, Joshua Murphy and Michael Orlandella brought Pooh bears. Jamie Lipman and Greg Carlson had bears from Australia. Matthew Bausemer, John Demember, Jay Levine, Becky MacDougall and Adam Rolfs brought fluffy and shaggy bears and Jonathan Buba's bear was the fattest. Christopher Marden's bear was the youngest and Suzanne Leonard, Matt Clark, Colleen Reid and Debby Sabath won awards for bringing the cutest little bears. Jeff Debeer and Stephen Carter had the best dressed bears. Randy Stanco, Nick Schwartz and Ben Oyer's friends were brown and cuddly. Phoebe Lopes traveled with E.T. and Adam Moskal brought along Yogi bear. Jared firestone, Sean Fitzgerald, Brian Lafranchi and Shahram played with the Legos and built awesome trucks and rockets.

Tiny Tot

Week number six at the Tiny Tot playground was filled with many varied activities. On Tuesday all the children did finger painting but not with your ordinary finger paint. They used chocolate fudge pudding! Jeremy Bergeson and Lauren Sweeney were a bit apprehensive about putting their hands in at first, but as soon as they took the first lick of that delicious chocolate pudding, they plunged right in.

On Wednesday and Thursday they celebrated Easter. You have never seen the Bunny Hop until you've seen it performed by 25 three and four year olds accompanied by their very own bunnies. Austin Lewis and Robert Lyones enjoyed the egg decorating and Eggbert song. The highlight of the Easter celebration was the jelly bean hunt at the end of the day. All the children had to hop like little bunnies to find their jelly beans. Sarah Tuman hopped out the door on her way home.

All-Day

The sixth week at the Tech All-Day playground turned out to be a real hot one. Monday got off to a great start with an exceptional game of Prison Dodge Ball with one newcomer Craig Flashenberg. We were all so lucky to have two new friends from Japan, Hiromi and Izumi Hinata, at our playground. Tuesday Herbie Foster, Kelly Moriarty and Tommy Christopher all did a good job of capturing the flag. The pool was especially welcome as Eszter Vajda, Brendan O'Donohue, Jason Wiener and Kelly Moriarty continue to impress us with their lap swimming. We all said goodbye to Sarah Halleran who entered the hospital on Wednesday for an operation. Also on Wednesday we attended a magic show at the Ballardvale playground. The highlight of Thursday was Group 2's grueling kickball game while Group 1 made very creative popsicle stick houses. Lisa Allen and David Halleran showed their endurance skills racing around the practice fields. Friday was cookout and movie day.

Bancroft

Monday's big event was the creation of popsicle stick crafts. Budding architects are John Saalfrank, Denise Doran, Pete Daniels and Paul Allard. Tuesday was Jo-Jo's birthday. She was surprised by a "slightly burned cake" decorated by future Julia Childs, Jere and Sharon. Jo-Jo received many cards as well as the masterfully created ship, The JJS, presented to her from the shipwrecked crew, a Kearn's original. The surprise dessert, s'mores, left people begging for "some more." On Wednesday Matt Daniels, Maura Collins, Kara and Megan O'Handley were amazed by the Great Nerog and his magic show at the Ballardvale playground. Artemis displayed her magical talents by volunteering her abra-ca-dabr-cha-cha-cha. Thursday was hair raising while we created our own salon. Breakfast was served, consisting of blueberry pancakes, frozen donuts and orange juice. The custodians enjoyed it as well as the kids. Friday's cookout was another big ragoo affair. We said bye to Jo-Jo. We'll miss her very much. Bye Jo-Jo! We love you.

Sanborn

Although the gym is closed for the rest of the summer, Sanborners continue to enjoy themselves. Monday kids like David Pecoraro and Gus Yungebauer made clothespin people with felt. Due to the hot and humid weather Dead Dog has been the number one game of the week. Wednesday Kathy and Patty took 28 kids to Ballardvale playground for the Magic Castle Magic Show.

Thursday was the bike hike to Rose Glen Dairy; attending were Jeff Hechemy, Tom and Jenny Pecoraro, Jon Lewis, "Boo" Puglia, Chrissy Donovan, Tim Parker, Ben Medler, Mike Pierro and Brian Firicano escorted by Patty and Aimee. On the way home, after a stop at Ballardvale, they visited Mr. Taconi's farm and got to see his race horses, including a six-week-old baby. Chris and Scott Eggert, Mandy Firicano, Rob Lewis and David Pecoraro were involved in the Simon Says Championship, led by Kathy.

The week ended with a cookout and the sending of get well cards to Peter in hopes that he will be back on the playground on Monday.

South

Jennifer Bell, Michelle Doucette, Elisa Derby, Kim and Wendy Germain and many others went crazy over friendship pin-making on Monday. Intensive games of bombardment and indoor soccer were also popular.

On Tuesday a walk and bike ride to Scoops Ice Cream Store was a refreshing break from the heat. Charles Calvi, Leanne Mills, Jackie and Marc Escott, the Wise's and Michele Gorton revealed true creativity in painting rulers.

Italian Festival In Lawrence

Immigrant City Archives will present an Italian Festival October 1 at the Lawrence YWCA auditorium from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. An Italian dinner will be served with wine, the Bell-Aires will play music for dancing and there will be a tarantella dance contest and prizes. Tickets will be available from the Immigrant City Archives.

Anthony M. Corrente will speak on "Growing Up Italian." He will tell how it was to be born in Lawrence of first generation Italian immigrant parents and what his neighborhood was like in the 1920s and '30s. Corrente is the son of a tailor who worked in his father's shop. He graduated from Lawrence High in 1937 and earned his bachelors and master degree from the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy in Boston. He served as a Coast Guardsman during World War II. Corrente resides in Worcester with his wife, Rose. They have two children.

A magic show highlighted Wednesday. Robert Dawley, Martha Vehlou, Sajini Shetty, Bryna Willis, Greg Biliaro, David Burke and Anthony, alias "the sting," enjoyed the Donkey Kong plus magic show. South would like to thank Ballardvale for hosting the show.

Unfortunately, the weather was not that great for a trip to Pomp's Pond on Thursday, but Crissy Barrow enjoyed the trip anyhow.

Friday was wild during Punk Day. Dawn Barrow and Nicole Giorton were Punk Queens.

West Elementary

Monday the West Elementary playground opened the week with rousing games of relievio, capture the flag and a massive game of Dead Dog. Participants included Todd Musterait, Marc Selvitelli, Katie Richards, Tara Richards, Spanky Charland, Adam Westaway and Kim Hein. Tuesday's activities included around the world with Ann Marie Charland, Christine Spigesi, Kristi Amerto and Joanne Tao. Wednesday was a very busy day. Ten children traveled to Ballardvale playground for a magic show, including Peter and Greg Gigliotti, Debbie Green, Amy Cohen and Elizabeth Adler. Tie dye t-shirts and push pin people were the crafts of the day. Richard and Scott Marique, Michelle and Jimmy Riddle and Amy Wilkens enjoyed these projects. The highlight of the day was lunch from McDonalds. Angie Roux, Jeremy Roux, Joey Sirois, Ryan Abernathy, Matt Abernathy, Michael Kelly and Anna Schetty were among the 26 children who enjoyed Happy Meals. Thursday was "Andover Day—Be A True Prep." The main activity was an alligator drawing contest. Contest winners were Shelly Camarota, first; Angie Roux, second; and Steve Paro, third. An air band performance by the staff had the kids laughing a lot. Bead and wire necklaces were the crafts project. Stacy Jenkins, Allison Jenkins and Kristin Jenkins particularly enjoyed this. Week six ended with a bike hike to Pomp's, Halloween party and cookout.

Ballardvale

Monday started out slow with a few crafts, but ended with a puppet show. Each person made their own puppets and then acted out a part in the show. Tuesday we took a bike hike to Rose Glen. The day ended with a game of kickball.

Wednesday a magic show visited the playground and the performance was wonderful. Thursday we played many park games such as call ball and Simon Says, then visited Mr. Taconi's farm where we saw a six-week baby colt.

Friday a cookout was held at Pomp's Pond. It was a fun-filled day of activities, including an excellent meal prepared by our very own supervisor, Craig Silva.

The University of Lowell was established in June, 1975 by the merger of Lowell State College and Lowell Technological Institute. The university today has seven colleges: Education, Engineering, Health Professions, Liberal Arts, Management Science, Music, and Pure and Applied Science.

Dartmouth Students Honored

Two Dartmouth College students from Andover have been cited for outstanding academic achievement during the past term.

Meghan J. Hanawalt received a citation for her work in Italian 5: Language Study Abroad and Ellen Marie Harrington was honored for her work in Italian 5, a course taken as part of the Dartmouth Language Study Abroad program.

Miss Hannawalt, daughter of Arnold and Maureen Hanawalt of 6 Tobey Lane, was cited by Visting Associate Professor of French and Italian Mario Specchio, who commented favorably on her work saying she demonstrated a notable critical capacity. She is a 1981 graduate of Phillips Academy where she was on the Honor Roll.

Miss Harrington, daughter of Joseph and Ellen Harrington, 7 Elysian Drive, was also cited by Professor Specchio saying she had shown much interest and had spent the previous term studying in France on a Dartmouth program. She is a 1981 graduate of Phillips Academy in Andover and spent a term in Mexico as a student there.

Citation winners are quite unusual among the 4,000 undergraduates on the Dartmouth campus, as members of the faculty are invited to submit Citation Reports only when a student's work is sufficiently distinguished to merit special recognition. Such citations are rare, and relatively few are submitted each term.

Named Hospital Operating Officer

Joseph S. McManus

Joseph S. McManus, associate executive director of Lawrence General Hospital (LGH), has been promoted to chief operating officer (COO) effective immediately. This is a new position created by the board of trustees.

McManus will report directly to Thomas Ford Hennessey, LGH president and chief executive officer. He will manage all professional services, patient care services (including nursing services) and support services comprising approximately 85 percent of the hospital staff. In concert with Hennessey he will monitor quality assurance standards and do strategic master planning for the hospital.

"In this new key managerial position, Mr. McManus' responsibility becomes that of hospital executive with titles commonly adopted in the profession such as executive vice president or hospital administrator," Hennessey said.

McManus came to LGH in 1976 as assistant director and most recently served as acting executive director. He was responsible for the new emergency department, opened in 1980 and now the busiest in the Merrimack Valley. He developed the hospital's occupational health service for area business and industry and played a major role in the hospital's designation as the trauma center for the eastern Merrimack Valley.

Previously he was assistant director of Robert B. Brigham Hospital, Boston, and was health services administrator of the neighborhood health program in Bridgeport, CT.

McManus holds a master of public health in hospital administration from Yale University School of Medicine and did his administrative residency at Beth Israel Hospital. He holds a bachelor of arts from Southern Connecticut State College.

He is a trustee of the First Essex Savings Bank, Lawrence, and a trustee of the Greater Lawrence Home Health and Nursing Services, Inc.

McManus lives in Andover with his wife, Denise, and children, Mara, 4, and Mark, 2.

Special Program At Library

A special program of American folk music and stories by Tim Van Egmond, especially for children ages 6-12, will be presented at Memorial Hall Library on Thursday, Aug. 18, at 2 p.m.

Van Egmond is a singer of folk songs, a craftsman who makes musical instruments and a collector of folk traditions, the kind that is "oral history," that you can't look up in a book.

He has been a folk music enthusiast since the 1960s and the early days of Peter, Paul and Mary and the Kingston Trio. A 1972 graduate of Colgate University, Van Egmond's love of music sparked an additional interest which has since developed into a business of its own, that of making and selling musical instruments.

Working out of his shop in Haydenville, he constructs such wood instruments as the hammer dulcimer, Appalachian dulcimer, the limberjack and the mouth bow.

Free tickets may be picked up in the Children's Room at Memorial Hall Library starting August 11. Space is limited and remaining tickets will be available after 1:30 p.m. on the day of the show.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. McCartney

Andrea Jane Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Duncan Black of Greenville, S.C., formerly of Andover, became the bride of Daniel James McCartney, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McCartney of Lawrence at 5:30 p.m. on July 23 before an altar adorned with white carnations, gladioli and English Ivy.

The Rev. Robert D. Smith officiated at the double ring ceremony in St. James Church, Haverhill. J. Duncan Black, Jr. of Manchester, N.H., welcomed guests and gave the first altar reading from the book of Genesis. The second altar reading, from Corinthians, was delivered by Thomas H. Black. Cynthia Bistany sang "On This Day" and "Ave Maria." Family pews were marked with bows of white dotted Swiss.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white quiana with Queen Anne neckline and bishop sleeves. The bodice and sleeves were re-embroidered with Alencon lace and clusters of seeded pearls. Accordion pleats fell from the empire waist to a full cathedral train. She wore a chapel length veil of imported illusion, caught in a tiara of lace and seeded pearls. Her bouquet was a full ascade of white roses, orchids, stephanotis and baby's breath.

McCartney-Black

The bride's sister, Elizabeth Hynes of Madison, Wisc., was matron of honor. She wore a turquoise sheath style gown with bell sleeves and hand-crocheted sash. Ribbon streamers were centered in back with a hand-crocheted rose. Bridesmaids, Maureen McCartney and Kathleen Camasso wore identical gowns in peach and Beverly Brasseur and Mary Lou McCartney wore lilac. Attendants carried sprays of roses and baby's breath in colors matching their gowns and wore combs of matching baby's breath in their hair. Kristen McCartney was flower girl. She wore a peach and lilac floral print gown with turquoise underskirt and carried a princess nosegay in the same colors.

John Collins was best man and ushers were Joseph Sweeney, John McCartney, Richard McCartney and David McCartney.

Mrs. Black, mother of the bride, wore a gown of ice blue quiana; the groom's mother wore mint green. Their corsages were double orchids with baby's breath.

An evening reception was held at the Andover Club. Thomas H. Black offered the blessing and John Collins toasted the couple. Mrs. J. Duncan Black, Jr. and Diane Douty were hostesses at the guest book.

Following a wedding trip to Jackson, Wyoming, the couple will reside in Haverhill.

Action Promised To Quiet Howling Dog

A Wolcott Avenue dog that howls whenever it is left alone has been declared a nuisance by the selectmen, who indicated that they will take "very definite action" if they hear further complaints about the dog.

During a hearing at Memorial Hall Library Monday night, William and Shirley Port of Wolcott Avenue told the selectmen they have complained to the dog officer several times about a springer spaniel belonging to the Anderson family of Wolcott Avenue. The Ports said they have spoken to the Andersons about the problem as well.

The Ports said the dog "barks and howls" when it is left alone, and is often left unattended. Mrs. Port said the noise keeps her awake at night.

Horace Poynter of Elm Street, a neighbor, said he must keep his windows closed "because of the noise." Poynter called the dog "friendly — a nice dog", but said it often sounds "like a coyote baying at the moon. It just goes on and on."

Atty. Philip Sullivan of Andover, speaking for the Ports, said the problem has been going on for more than four years. He suggested that the selectmen direct the Andersons not to leave the dog alone, inside or outside, "at least" from 9 p.m. to 7 a.m.; or to remove the dog when the family is not home; or to remove the dog from town.

But Selectman William Dalton said he was "not sure the selectmen should tell people how to keep their dog quiet." Instead, he moved to find the dog a nuisance by reason of excessive barking — and to send the owners a letter informing them that if the board receives further complaints about the dog, they will take "very definite action."

The board voted unanimously to approve that motion (Norma Gammon was absent).

Ballardvale One Way Street Plan On Hold For Further Discussions

By Sue Aucella Deacon

The selectmen have voted to restrict traffic on River Street to help cut down industrial traffic traveling through Ballardvale, but this week some Vale residents told the board they are not happy about that plan.

During a crowded meeting at Memorial Hall Library Monday night, a number of Ballardvale residents said they oppose a plan to restrict River Street traffic to one-way northbound from 7 to 9 a.m. and southbound from 3 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. State Department of Public Works officials approved that plan last week.

The selectmen came up with the idea earlier this summer as one way to keep industrial traffic — both trucks and commuters — from traveling through Ballardvale's narrow residential streets on their way to the many industries located in Lowell Junction. That traffic could instead use Ballardvale Street in Wilmington to Route 125 to reach Route 93, according to the board.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony recommended that the selectmen delay implementing the one-way routing until town officials and residents have a chance to discuss it further. "It is a solution under certain conditions," the manager said. "And it has stirred up some response among industries and residents."

Mahony said he planned to meet with state Public Works officials some time this week to discuss an "alternative suggestion" from the state.

But River Street residents urged the selectmen to reconsider the proposal, because they said it would impose hardships on them without really solving the traffic problem.

Geraldine Bresnahan of 86 River St. presented the board with a petition opposing the idea. She said the one-way restriction would "impose tremendous disadvantages" on residents who would have to drive out of their way to get off the street. The petition added that school buses and emergency vehicles would have to take a roundabout route and that property values along the street would drop.

The petitioners said speeders would not be impeded by the restriction — which might actually encourage more speeding, they said — and that speeding is the greatest traffic problem on the street.

George Nader of 30 River St. told the board that because he lives near Andover Street, he would have to drive seven miles out of his way to get off River Street under the restriction. "and I think that's ridiculous." He said that if the plan is implemented, he will not obey the one-way restriction.

Philip Wormwood of 11 Lowell Junction Road added that the restriction would force River Street residents to "change their very lifestyles," because if they can't exit onto Andover Street they will have to travel into Wilmington to reach any other part of Andover.

"The impact of it should be totally understood," Wormwood said. "It's more than what is normally thought of as a one-way street, where you just have to go around the block."

Representatives of two Lowell Junction industries spoke against the plan as well. Peter Price of Industrial Materials Technology, 155 River St., said the one-way routing would slow down police and fire vehicles and ambulances trying to enter the area; he suggested that other alternatives, such as speed bumps, be considered.

And Philip Hunt of Harris Environmental, Connector Road, said the restriction would cause "tremendous inconvenience" for his company's 80 employees. "I'm a taxpayer, too, and I'd like to have free access to the roads," he said.

Andover DPW Director Robert McQuade added that he opposed the plan, and that he and his staff would work with townspeople and the selectmen to come up with a better solution.

The selectmen asked Ballardvale residents — those for as well as those against the one-way plan — to work together to come up with solutions to the industrial traffic problem in their neighborhoods.

"The decision of the board was not to cause anyone any inconvenience, but to control traffic to a certain degree," Donn Byrne told the residents. "It's up to Ballardvale people to arrive at a solution — if everyone gets together and arrives at something you can all live with, we'll do it."

And Chairman Gerald Silverman urged the residents not to become adversaries. "Please don't become them and us," he said. "It's all of us, it's the town of Andover."

James Cassidy, president of the Ballardvale Village Improvement Society (B.V.I.S.), said an open meeting would be held Wednesday night at South School for all area residents and industries to discuss their concerns.

And Silverman said the selectmen would discuss the plan again during their next meeting.

School Personnel Reinstatement May Not Be Possible This Year

Seven-year old Lisa Smith, 73 Memorial Circle, knows how to make the best out of a hot day: getting tossed about in the cool waters of Pumps Pond. Her companions are Susan Kimball, of Rye, N.H. and Julie Madden, 23 Tewksbury St.

Because Andover received less additional state aid this year than town officials had anticipated, the school department's plan to reinstate some personnel may not be possible, the superintendent said this week.

Earlier this year, Superintendent Kenneth Seifert described to the School Committee how he would recommend spending new state aid within the school department.

But after the state released its cherry sheet figures last week, "what was at one time an anticipated brighter day is a little cloudier," School Committee Chairman Richard Neal said.

Business Manager Francis Paul told the committee that town officials had expected to receive about $377,000 in new aid, but Andover in fact will receive $140,405.

He added, however, that an additional $77,243 should be forthcoming because the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational School received an increase of $1,404,420 — and Andover's share should be returned to the town.

Neal said it would be "inappropriate" for the committee to "anticipate additional revenues at this time." He said the committee will meet with the selectmen and Finance Committee to discuss how the town and schools will share the cherry sheet reimbursements.

Stephen Jankauskas, Andover Education Association president, urged the committee to "aggressively pursue any funds that are out there" before the school year begins, so that personnel can be reinstated if possible.

Looking on the brighter side of budgeting, the committee noted that the schools squeaked through Fiscal Year 1983 without deficit — and in fact with a balance of $301.

"We wound down in close fashion," Neal noted. "I'm glad to see it's a plus."

Seifert replied that during his 14 years in Andover, "it's always been a plus. I'm not surprised in the least."

In other budgetary matters this week, the committee discussed a possible increase in user fees and approved a transfer of funds.

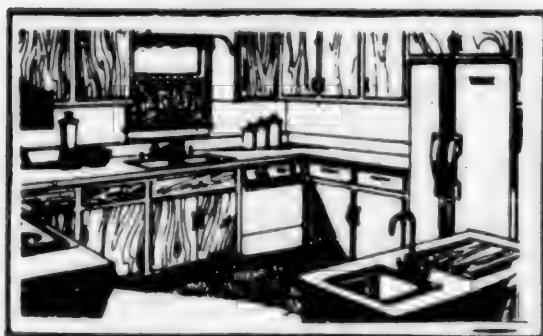

The committee considered raising user fees for music lessons from $35 to $50 because a $25,000 revolving fund used to support the music program is down to $16,000. Assistant Superintendent Charles Mitsakos said that unless user fees were increased, the department would have to cut a half-time position and cut back the music program.

The committee asked the administration to return to their Sept. 6 meeting with more information on how many students are involved in the music program, and how many are from the same families. They indicated they might place a limit on the fee per family.

Popup Lids

Many Andover streets give the appearance of having flip-top lids these days as utility line covers are lifted to allow for the annual hot topping program under the direction of the highway department. Several streets have already been improved while others have the raised lids still awaiting the final coat of pavement.

Editorial Comment

A Solution Out Of Chaos

It seems evident that the Ballardvale community may soon be in total agreement on resolving the age-old problem of traffic through the village en route to the Lowell Junction Industrial Park.

While there has been general agreement over the years that there is a problem caused by the industrial growth, only those who have been directly affected have been involved and/or vocal about the matter.

Now, with a one-way street plan proposed and approved by both the selectmen and state authorities, everyone is involved in one way or another and the concerns are unified.

The motivating influence, of course, is the selectmen-approved one-way plan for River Street, which permits traffic to flow in one direction in the peak morning hours and in the opposite direction at the end of the work day.

Recommended by a traffic consultant, it was thought that despite local approval, state authorities would veto the plan, based on River Street being a Chapter 90 road, accessible in both directions to the general public and a road connecting two communities.

But, the state gave its sanction to the plan. There is the suggestion that possible state authorities have heard so much about Ballardvale traffic problems and a Lowell Junction interchange, that they may have figured this will quiet things down for a while.

Obviously it is going to do just the opposite.

The one-way plan is fraught with problems of a serious nature.

Emergency vehicles can not, as some believe, defy one way traffic patterns, thus extending response time for fire, police vehicles or the ambulance. As the general public would be compelled to do, so too would the emergency vehicles have to go to Wilmington and back to Andover to answer calls.

Too, delivery trucks, mail operations, and in general any traffic utilizing River Street, would be diverted to Wilmington and back during some periods of the day.

Residents of the street face an even greater danger. There is always the possibility of making the wrong turn exiting their driveways, or heading in the wrong direction returning home, simply through driving habits developed over a period of years.

Other problems include speeding, which can increase with traffic going in only a single direction, posting of complicated signs and the possibility the town providing police on duty during the specific one-way hours at least in the initial stages, to provide some safety factor.

Whether the selectmen, in making their decision to approve the system, had thought of such things is almost irrelevant at this point. What they did accomplish in making the decision, is that they have now unified Ballardvale toward looking at a problem which directly affects their section of the town.

The area is now obviously divided. River Street residents, as can be expected, are opposed to the plan. Those in other parts of the Vale favor it, because it provides some semblance of relief which they have been seeking for a number of years.

Up to now, while there was some concern about residents of Clark Road, and streets in the center of Ballardvale where heavy traffic posed problems, there wasn't too much concern about other sections of the Vale.

Now, with what seemed an easy solution to the problem, has turned into a unifying effort to either resolve a difficult situation or come to the realization that there is no easy answer, other than to get some sort of an entrance into the junction industrial area off Route 93.

That effort began last night with a meeting of the Ballardvale Village Improvement Association. It obviously will be continued through meetings with industrial representatives who have a major stake in the decision along with the residents of the area, and public safety officials.

It is hoped that the residents will look at the proposed use of an improved Ballardvale Street in Wilmington. Through an agreement between Andover and Wilmington officials, that road will be recommended for truck use once reconstruction work is accomplished. And, while it may be a lot to ask residents who have put up with difficult conditions for years, a little more patience in the matter may provide adequate relief.

In any case, it appears evident that out of the current chaos, there may come some amicable, unified solution to a Ballardvale problem which really involves the entire town.

The next Travelog at the senior center will be held Monday, Aug. 15, at 2 p.m. at which time Nancy Gallagher will take us on a tour of the Carribean. Sit in air-conditioned comfort and enjoy this inexpensive way to travel.

This is the last week to sign up for the cheese and butter distribution in August. You had better get down to The Haven and sign up no later than tomorrow, Friday.

There are only four or five seats left on the August 31 clambake trip to Dennisport on the Cape. If you want to be included in the group, sign up now or you'll be disappointed.

There are two or three seats left on the Boston Harbor Cruise, too. Don't delay if you want to go.

The October Fall Foliage Tour is already over half full. It is not too early to sign up. Obviously, a lot of people already have. Don't let it go. When the leaves are all beautiful and the first frost is on the pumpkin, you'll be kicking yourself for not signing up now.

The next regular monthly meeting of the Andover Council on Aging will be held Tuesday, Aug. 16, at 9:30 a.m. Everyone is invited to attend this open meeting. Persons with ideas and suggestions for future activities are especially welcome and invited to come and participate.

As you know, the hot lunch program (summer session) ends this week. The program is expected to resume on Sept. 12 when school starts. The hour will revert to 12:45 at that time.

On August 19 there will be a diabetes screening program at The Haven, under the sponsorship of the Andover Public Health nurses. You are invited to make an appointment by phoning the senior center. They will arrange for you to receive a special menu for the meal to be eaten two hours prior to the screening. The screening is not possible without that special meal.

The Public Forum

Modest Relief

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

I would like to comment on your August 4 article concerning the one-way traffic plan for Ballardvale in which you displayed a greater measure of editorial hostility to the plan than journalistic objectivity about its merits. Editorializing that the "one-way plan may create rather than solve problems," your article emphasized the inconveniences which the plan would impose on industrial firms and other parties, but tended to downplay the tangible benefits of this plan to Ballardvale's residents.

The fundamental problem, as I see it, is that the town government has permitted and even encouraged extensive industrial development in Lowell Junction before construction of an adequate access road to I-93. This premature industrial development must have benefitted certain real estate developers and industrial investors greatly, but, it has also imposed extra noise, exhaust emissions and traffic safety problems on the residents of Ballardvale.

Let us face the real issue squarely. The one-way plan for River Road would provide a modest degree of relief for those town residents whose interest have been sacrificed in the name of industrial progress. Don't the beneficiaries of industrial growth owe the residents of Ballardvale future relief and even compensation for costs already incurred?

WEEKLY SPECIAL

CIA spending $250,000 a month on Nicaraguan rebel warBy Jack Anderson and Joe Spear

WASHINGTON — What is the CIA's guerrilla campaign in Nicaragua costing the American taxpayer? No one will say for sure. But we sent our associate Jon Lee Anderson to Nicaragua to talk with rebel commanders who are leading the fight against the Sandinista forces. For the first time, some of the guerrillas talked actual dollars and cents to an American reporter.

The people our associate interviewed were leaders of the Miskito-Indian forces. There are 2,000 of these Indians fighting the Sandinista government's troops in the swamps and bayous of Nicaragua's Atlantic coast.

The Miskitos said the CIA offered rebel forces an initial sum of $80,000 but they say they never saw a dime of it. They get their money and supplies through the CIA's favorite rebel group, the Nicaraguan Democratic Force, known as the FDN. The Miskitos say the FDN kept the whole $80,000.

For a while, they said, they also got $50,000 a month. But now they complain that "the gringos" — the CIA — have cut their allowance back to $35,000 a month. This does not include arms and ammunition — just food, transportation and other supplies.

The FDN numbers about 13,000 men, almost seven times as large as the Miskito rebel army. It's a safe assumption that the CIA is paying its favorite guerrillas at least as much per man as it pays the Indians. A little arithmetic shows that the bill for the CIA's not-so-secret war is more than a quarter of a million dollars a month. And that's not counting weapons and ammunition.

In fact, the FDN guerrillas are probably getting a lot more per capita than the Miskito Indians. Miskito leaders complained that while their men are going hungry, the FDN rebel leaders are living in luxury at the CIA's expense. The Indians said the FDN commanders are paid $3,500 a month and have houses and expenses paid by the CIA — that is, by American taxpayers. Other officers get $2,000 a month, the Indians claimed.

GOOD PLACE TO WORK: Congress has been considering whether to increase the U.S. allocation to the International Monetary Fund, a lending institution designed primarily to help poor nations with their economic problems. But we have seen internal documents which show that new money would not be enough to save the IMF. One reason: Too much of the organization's funds are spent to support the lavish lifestyles of a few individuals.

Twenty percent of the IMF's 1,500 employees make more than $100,000 a year in salaries and benefits. The average upper-echelon official makes $139,000 annually. He or she is also entitled to 14 percent of that figure in future pension benefits. In addition, top IMF officials are offered home loans at 8 percent below current mortgage rates.

UNENFORCED RULES: Hazardous waste has become one of the country's biggest health problems, and new regulations have been proposed to reduce the menace. But a major reason for toxic dumping, spills and other mishaps is that the existing regulations simply aren't working. Current law requires that detailed shipping manifests must accompany hazardous waste shipments at all times. If the manifest system is properly used, it would almost guarantee proper waste disposal.

But the rules are sloppily enforced. Forged manifests, mislabeled containers and improper packaging of waste are commonplace. When violations are found, little is done to correct them.

Congress has now taken up legislation that would force small businesses, currently exempt from the manifest system, to be more accountable for the hazardous waste they produce. But no matter how the system is tightened, it won't work unless the rules are enforced.

INTELLIGENCE DIGEST: According to intelligence sources, Saudi Arabian officials have been cleaning house by eliminating some of the enemies they fear the most. Among those most hated are Shiite fundamentalists such as those who rule Iran. Several dozen have been charged with attempting to set up a Shiite state in eastern Saudi Arabia. At least half a dozen have been executed by being tossed out of airplanes flying over the desert.

— By supporting Syria, the Soviet Union may have established a new strategic foothold. Since being kicked out of Albania over two decades ago, the Russians have been seeking a permanent aircraft carrier berth in the Mediterranean. The Kremlin now expects Syria to provide it.

— Intelligence sources say the Soviets continue to give the Scandinavian nations tons of trouble. A few months ago, Russian submarines were lurking in Swedish waters. Now a Soviet diplomat has been thrown out of Norway for trying to buy secrets from a military officer. Sources say the officer was offered $28,000 for the secrets — twice as much bait as the Russians usually dangle.

Car Costs
Increase

The average cost of owning and operating a car rose one-half cent during the second quarter of 1983, to 23.8 cents per mile, according to the American Automobile Association.

AAA's study is based on computations made by Runzheimer and Company Inc. of Rochester, Wis., an international management consulting firm that specializes in measuring the cost of living, including transportation costs.

The half-cent increase was due largely to rising fuel prices and the additional five-cents-a-gallon federal gasoline tax that went into effect April 1.

AAA's report also includes automobile operating cost figures for the various regions of the country. New England, the most expensive, with 24.6 cents per mile.

Kitchen Design

David A. Clement, designer

An option you may wish to consider if your present kitchen is too small or awkwardly situated, is to move it to another room. If properly converted, attached garages, little-used dining rooms, screened porches, parlors, downstairs bedrooms and dens all make fine kitchens. Once the conversion of the whole kitchen has been completed, the old kitchen may be turned into a pantry, storage room or sitting room. Such a move will entail capping off the old plumbing and tying off the electrical wiring. A new room will require the necessary wiring, plumbing, ventilation and heating. Depending upon your situation, it may make sense.

Many homes have old, tiny kitchens but there are numerous ways to turn the kitchen into the room you have always wanted. We here at WINDSOR KITCHENS can solve all your kitchen remodeling needs and invite you to call 372-3444 for a consultation. Ruth All-Stars Enter Tournaments

By Rick Harrison

The Greater-Lawrence Babe Ruth League All-Stars, comprised primarily of players from the Andover Gold and Andover Blue teams, are scheduled to begin play in a pair of invitational tournaments this week.

There are three G-L All-Star teams, one comprised of 13-year-old baseball players, one made up of 14-year-old players and a third consisting of 15-year-old players.

In addition to kids from Greater-Lawrence League regular-season runner-up Gold and playoff runner-up Blue, the teams include players from regular-season champ South Lawrence West, playoff titlist North Andover and the Andover Major and Senior Little Leagues.

The 13-year-old squad will participate in the Saugus tourney at Stackpole Field and the Waltham tourney at McKenna-Cacciatore Memorial Field.

The 14-year-old crew will compete at Waltham, while the 15-year-old team will play in Saugus.

There is also a possibility one of the teams will play in the Somerville Invitational Tournament at Trum Field.

Most of the players on the 14-year-old team were members of the 13-year-old squad that won the Saugus tourney championship last summer, beating teams from Medford, Woburn and Saugus along the way.

Licenses

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Alan Mackey has reinstituted a policy which permits the administering of written learner's permit examinations in foreign languages.

Applicants for an automobile learner's permit must pass, with a grade of 70, a ten-question, multiple choice, written examination on motor vehicle law and the rules of the road.

When making an appointment for a learner's permit test, the applicant should advise Registry officials that he intends to take the test in his native language to ensure that an examination in the requisite foreign language will be available.

Registrar Mackey is revising and updating the auto drivers' manual and plans to utilize a number of scholars in the various foreign languages to assist in the translations of the draft.

Rain Needed

It's the time of year for the peak of the harvest season, yet in eastern Massachusetts especially, crops are suffering from lack of rain.

Peppers are a new-comer at farm stands and markets this week and first-of-the season peaches and summer "Lodi" apples are being harvested. The quality of the local produce available is good, yet there may be less of it.

Veteran NASCAR champion Dave Dion, who has seen Grand National championship action and is a former "Oxford 250" winner, is the latest entry for this Sunday's fifth annual "Gate City Classic" at the Hudson Speedway in Hudson, N.H.

Because of the large number of cars the "Gate City Classic" has drawn in past years, qualifying action has been moved up to a 5 p.m. start. The pit area will open at 3 p.m. and the box office at 4 p.m.

Dion, who has been one of the top Northern NASCAR stars, will drive his own late model Ford, but will be up against plenty of stiff competition.

Former "Gate City Classic" champions Bobby Gahan, Babe Branscomb and Wayne Dion also are expected.

OUTDOOR WOOD by Cox

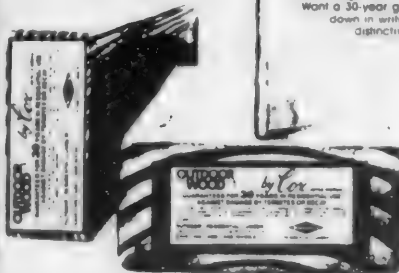

Now You Can Nail Down A 30-Year Guarantee On Treated Wood.

All green-colored wood is not alike.

Anyone who sells pressure treated lumber for out-of-doors building projects can claim "lasting protection" against fungi and termites for their wood. Just don't try to pin them down on how long their lumber will last.

Outdoor wood puts a 30-year guarantee in writing right there on their label. Then they stop. No more guarantee on the end of every single piece of their lumber. Want a 30-year guarantee nailed down in writing? Look for the distinctive orange label.

Jogging Course Nears Completion

Bon Secours Hospital is nearing the completion of the construction of a 1.25 mile jogging and exercise course located on the rounds of its 70-acre campus. The outdoor fitness track includes 20 exercise stations with illustrated signs that provide exercise instructions and cardiovascular information which enable adults and children to exercise at their individual fitness level. Hospital Director William L. Lane said, "The jogging and exercise course provides the hospital with the ideal opportunity to encourage people towards wellness in a practical way. With a facility of this type available in our community, individuals, businesses, schools and community groups interested in a location free of traffic concerns for walking, jogging or exercising can now make use of the hospital's course."

In addition to attracting the serious jogger, the outdoor course is designed in a 'game' format, challenging participants to win points at each station and maintaining the interest of people of all ages. At each station, illustrated signs instruct participants through a scientifically designed three-phase workout, including warmup, conditioning and cool-down activities. Instructions are geared to three fitness level: beginner, intermediate and advanced.

According to Lane, the funds necessary to finance the construction of the exercise and jogging course are being sought through a community-wide fundraising effort. Members of the jogging and exercise course executive committee, comprised of community and hospital representatives, are visiting area businesses, civic organizations and residents in an effort to solicit financial support for the construction costs which have been grouped into three phases.

Phase I, estimated at $38,480, includes the purchase and installation of the equipment and signs for the 20 stations, the clearing of the course and the costs for grading and filling the path. Phase II includes the cost of water stations and rest areas, while Phase III will provide for the installation of vandal resistant lighting fixtures. The total cost for all three phases has been estimated at $73,980.

Through these fundraising efforts, as well as an overwhelming show of financial support from hospital employees, an estimated $42,996 has been raised to date. The fitness track, available for the public's use without charge, is scheduled to open in September.

Some 168 million acres of commercial timberland represent about 35 percent of the nation's timberlands that have high potential for industrial timber growth and harvesting. Experts from the U.S. Forest Service estimate that proper management of this potential would increase our net annual timber growth in a major way and it can be done profitably.

He did advanced study at the Haarlem Summer Academy for Organists in the Netherlands.

lysts are predicting that Standex earnings in fiscal 1984 will attain record levels."

Regarding the latest dividend increase, Hogan stated that the company has paid increased cash and/or stock dividends each year since it "went public" in November 1964. In addition, he added, Standex has increased its dividends 18 times in the past eight years. The latest dividend is the 76th consecutive cash dividend.

Hogan said that the stock split "should increase our shareholder base and trading activity, and will afford us greater flexibility in meeting future stock needs."

Artist Of The Month

The oil paintings of Joanne B. MacLeod of boxford are on display at Memorial Hall Library for the month of August. A native of Akron, Ohio, she received her B.F.A. from Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh. Mrs. MacLeod studied at Western Reserve University and in Tokyo, Japan, where she lived for several years with her family. She has exhibited throughout New England and has won prizes for her portraits, three of which are included in this display.

Hall is about 65 feet in height to the center of the vault; 40 feet wide in the nave (70 feet at the transepts) and slightly over 100 feet in length. The somewhat over 300,000 cu. ft. volume provides an empty reverberation period of about four seconds.

The Music Hall is located on Broadway (Route 28) in Methuen. Off-street parking is provided beside the building.

Susan Armstrong will perform at the Music Hall on August 24.

Standex Plans For Stock Split

The board of directors of Standex International Corporation (NYSE) has increased its quarterly cash dividend to an annual rate of $1 a share and has approved plans for a two-for-one stock split.

Adoption of the stock split will be contingent on shareholder approval of an increase in the authorized common shares to 20 million from 10 million at diversified company's October 20 annual meeting and on a final review by the board of directors. If approved, the stock split would become effective shortly thereafter. Standex currently has 6.8 million shares outstanding.

The quarterly dividend has been increased to 25 cents a share—up from 23¼ cents a share—to an annual rate of $1 a share. The dividend is payable August 25 to stockholders of record on August 9.

In announcing the dividend increase and stock split plans, Daniel E. Hogan, chairman and chief executive of Standex, stated that the board's action reflected "its great satisfaction with Standex's rapid recovery from the recession." He added that "the pace of business in the final quarter of fiscal 1983 exceeded our expectations." Hogan indicated that "Standex is now back on its historic growth track" and added that "several Wall Street ana-

Corn All-Time Favorite

Watering Crops

Despite a continued lack of rain, Andover farmers have been able to continue to harvest their crops through the availability of water from the town system. Here a sprinkler keeps the crops of a West Andover farmer in good shape with a constant flow from a sprinkler.

When it comes to food for the month of August, fresh native corn on the cob is an all-time favorite across the Bay State.

It's the start of the peak harvest season at local farms and other produce items plentiful at farm stands and markets are ripe, red, juicy tomatoes, eggplant, fresh potatoes, carrots, shell beans, cucumbers, cabbage, lettuces, squashes, beets and greens.

All of this means "August is Massachusetts Grown and Fresher Vegetable Month," and a proclamation to this effect has already been signed by Governor Dukakis.

The continued dry soil conditions aren't helping the corn, however, and most crops are showing the effects of lack of sufficient rain.

Some growers can irrigate, and one of the most up-to-date irrigating systems in the Northeast is at the Williams Brothers Farm in Deerfield. Yet despite the irrigation, Kenny Williams told a group of visiting produce buyers that because of the dry conditions, "we're not going to get the yield."

Like many growers in the Bay State, the Williams brothers cultivate several of the yellow and white "bi-colored varieties such as Harmony, Sprite, Spring Calico and Sweet Sal. Later bi-colored include Honey Moon, Calypso, Ruby Gem and Burgundy Delight, the latter easily distinguished by their rosy red tassels at the top of the stalks.

Sweet, juicy blueberries are in season and the harvest of early apple varieties has just begun. The cranberry bogs are in blossom and the crop promises to be good and large in size.

Look for corn with fresh green husks and silk ends that are free of decay.

Refrigerate in husks, but cook as soon as possible and do not over-cook. Some sweet corn aficionados cover and cook corn barely four minutes.

Attended Language Village

Matthew T. LeMaitre, son of Dr. and Mrs. George D. LeMaitre, 8 Sunset Rock Road, Andover, attended the International Russian Language Village near Maplelag, Minn., from June 10-July 10. He is studying Russian at Phillips Academy.

Sponsored by Concordia College, Moorhead, Minn. the Language Villages introduce young people to a foreign culture at an informal lake setting specially designed to recreate the atmosphere of the adopted country. Through the use of passports, foreign currency and names, each villager experiences a lifestyle similar to that of Denmark, France, Germany, Norway, Russia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland or Finland.

Festivities celebrating national holidays and heroes, folk dances, music, movies and plays are directed by an excellent staff, many of whom are certified instructors or natives from the foreign country. Soccer, hiking, canoeing, archery, fencing, swimming and other sports activities are conducted in the foreign language. A special International Day Festival brings all of the villagers together to share their respective cultures and is the climax of two Language Village sessions.

Students, ages seven to 18 from more than 40 states and Canada, attend the Language Villages each summer, according to Odell Bjerkness, director of the program. No previous language experience is necessary since villagers are grouped according to ability. Sessions are scheduled for one or two weeks from June 6 to August 27. In addition to the regular sessions, International Language Villages offer special four-week high school credit sessions to students in grades nine and above.

A feature of the International Language Villages is the five European programs which visit France, the USSR, Spain, Germany and Sweden. These programs in Europe aim to provide greater understanding between people of different cultures, as suggested in the camp theme, "One World More."

Some Cars Fail Test Unnecessarily

After 3½ months of the Commonwealth's new vehicle inspection program, Anthony D. Cortese, commissioner of the Dept. of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE), reported, "some vehicles are unnecessarily failing the emissions test because drivers are not allowing adequate warm-up time prior to the inspection."

To avoid such failures, Cortese advised that engines be running for at least 20 minutes before the test. This precaution insures that pollution control devices are operating at maximum efficiency, the engine is idling at the correct speed and the automatic choke is disengaged.

Cortese also suggested that a regular tune-up be performed according to manufacturer's specifications before the inspection can increase the chance of passing. Tune-up related repairs include replacing spark plugs, points and condenser, cleaning or replacing the air, fuel and oil filters, changing the oil, replacing the PCV valve and adjusting the carburetor.

For those vehicles which do fail the emissions test (approximately 12 percent to date), Cortese suggested that motorists get the printed copy of their vehicle's analyzer test results and a copy of the I/M Failure Brochure from the inspection station operator, discuss the test results with the mechanic before authorizing repairs and not go to another station for a retest, as they will have to pay another inspection fee. After repairs have been completed, motorists should return to the station where the rejection was received for a free retest.

If motorists think the initial emissions test was done incorrectly, they may contact their local Registry of Motor Vehicles office and ask for a "Challenge Test."

The new Inspection and Maintenance (I/M) program, coordinated by the DEQE and the Registry of Motor Vehicles, requires that all vehicles registered in the Commonwealth are inspected for safety, or both safety and emissions, once a year during the month corresponding to the last number of the license plate. All cars, motorcycles and trucks, including those used as commercial vehicles, are inspected according to the license plate number. For instance, if the last number on a license plate is an 8, August is the inspection month; if it is 9, September is the month; if 0, October is the month. For plates with all letters and no numbers, the inspection month is November. Newly acquired vehicles must be inspected within seven days of registration, regardless of plate number.

For further information about the I/M program, call toll-free 1-800-462-0462.

53 journalists from 16 countries named it Europe's "Car of The Year."

We named it the new Audi 5000S.

Audi When the new Audi 5000S was voted Europe's "Car of The Year," we were, of course, pleased. But we weren't surprised. You won't be either once you drive it.

How many other five-passenger luxury touring sedans can accelerate from zero to 50 in just 8 seconds? Or cut through wind resistance with the impunity of a sports car? Or handle superbly, even in tight-cornering situations?

The new 5000S, with its advanced German engineering, can do all this. And more. In fact, after 6 years of designing and refining and over 3.2 million kilometers of road testing, this just may be the most roadworthy luxury sedan ever built.

The 5000S is also the product of fresh design ideas. For example, the idea of flush-mounted side windows and bonded front and rear windows (which not only help reduce drag but virtually eliminate wind noise).

What's more, you'll like the idea of our new 24-month, unlimited mileage warranty* and the long-term reliability that prompted it.

But, most of all, you'll like driving the new Audi 5000S.

Not because all those experts did. But for all the same reasons they did. PORSCHE + AUDI

Salon/Salon—The Salon With Class

Let the professional haircutters at Salon/Salon, located in the Sheraton Rolling Green, Lowell Street (Rte. 133), Andover, provide all phases of hair care for you: precision haircutting, hair coloring, permanent waving, frosting and foiling.

This fall hair fashions will be short with two styles emerging. One is the English bob where hair is sleek and all one length, very reminiscent of the Hollywood bob. The other style is hair cut very short, being shorter around the ears. Then it is styled or permed to bring all hair into an upsweep to the crown of the head, which accentuates your eyes and cheekbones.

These styles are versatile haircuts that, depending upon the way they're styled or blown dry, can provide a variety of looks, states Danny O'Connell, owner of Salon/Salon.

Why not keep the summer sun effect in your hair this fall. Foil frosting provides the natural look of the sun without the sun! Or maybe you'd prefer the drama of frosting or hair coloring.

The professional staff at Salon/Salon, Gary Gaudreau, Holly Cashman, Lisa St. Gelais, Mary DiZazzo and Linda Mele (also Lisa Brill and Linda Lister, not pictured), use only top quality products on your hair.

Manicured hands give your hands that finishing touch. Salon/Salon's manicurist Mary DiZazzo does manicures, nail wrapping and nail sculpture. Nail wrapping allows you to grow your own nails out by strengthening them.

To complete your look, the Salon/Salon professionals offer makeup instructions and application for weddings or special occasions.

For weddings, they can do hair, nails and makeup for the complete wedding party (even the groom) no matter what time your wedding is.

And if your dream is a total makeover, Salon/Salon can do that, too. Linda Mele of Salon/Salon worked on the Massachusetts women's makeovers featured in the July issue of Good Housekeeping. Salon/Salon's staff members have done national and international commercials as well.

So for complete hair and beauty care, make an appointment at Salon/Salon. Open six days a week from 9 a.m. until bookings run out. Closed at 6 p.m. on Wed. and Fri. Call 470-2500.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — August 1908

The thunderstorm of yesterday afternoon was very heavy in Andover although no damage was done by lightning. The clouds were the heaviest seen here this year.

A.C. Fenety, a well known Boston artist is in the town this week painting a portrait of Miss Julia Wong, a Chinese resident of Andover. Miss Wong is a graduate of the Quincy School and is here for the summer.

The walk leading from Bartlet street to Punchard school has been macadamized under the direction of Superintendent Milo H. Gould. The work will be greatly appreciated by those who attend Punchard as in the past it has been very muddy in wet weather.

The many friends of William McCreddie will be pleased to know that he has been awarded two scholarships for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for the coming year, one being a state scholarship and the other coming from the trustees of the institution.

50 Years Ago — August 1933

Those interested in the preserving of all that is best in old Andover, will be pleased to hear that the Benjamin Abbot house has been transferred to the Society for the Preservation of old New England houses. For eight generations it has been owned by an Abbot. Practically speaking the house is to be the property of the Society but actually it will be held for the present by one of the trustees.

The list of local firms who have sent in their agreements to the post office to abide by one of the codes established under the National Recovery Act has mounted to sizeable proportions in a very few days. Officials expect that it will continue to mount rapidly, since there are several others who have letters but have not turned them in yet, and there are still others who expect that the specific code for their industry will go into effect at any time.

At a stormy session of the School Committee Wednesday evening two new teachers were appointed to the teaching staff of the local schools and one out-of-town candidate recommended by the sub-committee on teachers and grounds was defeated because the majority of the committee felt that there was a possibility that a local person could fill the position.

25 Years Ago — August 1958

The Planned Shopping Center zoning voted last March at town meeting has been ruled illegal by Town Counsel Vincent Stulgis. In a written opinion to the Planning Board, he has stated that the areas zoned for the purpose revert to their former status. Thus the West Andover center, zoned in March, would change back to Zone C residential; while the shopping center zone on North Main street would revert to industrial.

Extensive improvements to the electric distribution facilities in Ballardvale and along South Main street are planned by the Merrimack-Essex Electric Company. Officials of the firm met recently with the Board of Public Works to discuss routes and potential tree removals. The new high power line, to carry heavier loads in expectation of future residential demands, will start at the Ballardvale-Tewksbury line, along Dascomb road, Clark road, Andover street, Ballardvale road and along South Main street to the By-Pass.

10 Years Ago — August 1973

No consuming of alcoholic beverages will be allowed in the Park — the area in front of East Junior High School — according to a vote of the Selectmen Monday night who expressed considerable concern about conditions there. The regulation adopted unanimously by the board prohibits the drinking of alcoholic beverages in the park area, the bandstand, and also includes the school property, which is covered by a statute which bans alcoholic beverages from public school property.

REALTOR

CERTIORARI

No, it's not an Italian sports car or even a brand of wine! It's a court proceeding that may point out the difference between weather and taxes. The proverb says "Everyone talks about the weather but no one does anything about it." A paraphrase on that might be "Everyone complains about taxes but you MIGHT be able to do something about them." That's where certiorari comes in!

Suppose you think your taxes are too high and you ask the tax officials for a reassessment. You get a hearing, they listen patiently, smile, and nod their collective heads. They meet, talk, and say no dice — that's the tax you have to pay. Enough said, so dig down.

You can then, if you want to, appeal to the courts by means of certiorari. The court reviews the assessment and the tax people must prove that their assessment is legally fair. The court usually doesn't fix the assessed value, but they can criticize the officials if they didn't do things according to the law they must follow. The court may even direct an assessed value reduction. There's a gamble involved — the court may sustain the tax officials, but it still may be worth a try!

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Punchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

The first Arbor Day celebration was held on April 10, 1872 in Nebraska.

Mass. Electric To Build Energy Efficient Home

Massachusetts Electric will build an energy-efficient home in the Merrimack Valley and a similar home in the Worcester area.

According to Mass. Electric Vice President Fenton Varney, building this house is part of the company's commitment to energy conservation. "This house will be used to demonstrate the latest energy technologies and to show consumers who are considering building new homes how they can make them energy-efficient. Our house will also display a variety of energy-saving measures that can be used in existing homes."

The design of this house won top honors in an Energy Efficient Home Design competition sponsored by Mass. Electric's parent company, New England Electric, earlier this year.

Personnel

And, at Seifert's recommendation, the committee approved the transfer of $30,000 from the expense portion of the 5200 (fixed charges) account to the salary portion of the 2300 (teaching) account to pay for one full-time physical education teacher, a half-time science and half-time math teacher.

The superintendent said the schools could afford to cut the $430,000 fixed charges expense account to $400,000 because Blue Cross/Blue Shield costs for employee insurance have increased less than anticipated.

New Program

The Division of Continuing Education at Emmanuel College announces a new addition to its degree programs, the Adult Degree Completion Program. Designed for adults who already have earned A.S., A.A. or A.A.S. degrees, or who have some significant college experience, the program enables students to complete degrees in the major of their choice.

A B.S. in Health Care Administration, also available, is an interdisciplinary major designed to meet the needs of those employed in a health-care related position in community health organizations, government agencies, hospitals, HMOs, nursing homes and insurance companies.
